

State of South Carolina

Governor's Proclamation

WHEREAS, the American Academy of Pediatrics and the centers for Disease Control and Prevention identify nutrition during the first 1,000 days of life as a critical factor to early brain growth, the development of the central nervous system, and lifelong mental health; and

WHEREAS, pediatric feeding disorder (PFD) is defined as impaired oral intake that is not age-appropriate and is associated with medical, nutritional, feeding skill, and/or psychosocial dysfunction; and

WHEREAS, conservative evaluations estimate that more than one in thirty-seven children under the age of five and more than one in five children with a chronic disease experience severe PFD in the United States annually; and

WHEREAS, every bite of food can be painful, scary, or simply impossible to swallow for children with PFD, potentially impeding nutrition, development, growth, and overall well-being; and

WHEREAS, families navigating PFD can feel isolated and overwhelmed in the struggle to overcome the medical, emotional, financial, educational, and social issues related to the disorder; and

WHEREAS, raising awareness of PFD can lead to earlier detection, increased research, improved treatments, and a better quality of life for children and their families.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Henry McMaster, Governor of the great State of South Carolina, do hereby proclaim May 2023 as

throughout the state and encourage all South Carolinians to learn more about pediatric feeding disorder and recognize the children and families it affects.
